Connecting to Wi-Fi at events held at the Rectorate venue

As of 1 June 2025, the Kampus Wi-Fi network has been disabled at both the Rectorate location and the Celetná 13 site.

Using eduroam

Students and staff at Charles University should normally connect their wireless devices to the eduroam Wi-Fi network. This network offers the widest coverage, including areas outside of the University premises, making it a significantly more advantageous choice compared to other networks. If you need to access certain local network resources that are not available via eduroam, you can use a VPN connection.

Using uk-events

If you are organising an event that includes guests who do not have access to the eduroam network, you may use the uk-events network. This network allows people outside of Charles University to connect; however, a temporary password must be created specifically for the event and then shared with the participants.

Request a Temporary Password for uk-events

Password must be requested at least 2 working days in advance.

Only event organisers may request the password, not the participants themselves. The organisers are responsible for passing the password on to the event attendees.
