
Online Publication System Department

Leader: RNDr. Daniel Toropila, Ph.D.

Scoper of work:

The Department of the Online Publication System provides the development and administration of the Document Globe editorial system, which is used for the creation and administration of Charles University websites and newsletters, such as the main pages of Charles University, the websites of some faculties and their departments and institutes, or the pages of other university institutions, which currently amount to more than 200 websites, over 140,000 documents, which are cared for by more than 700 users.

Further information about our editorial system can be found on the dedicated pages of Document Globe , where you can learn in particular:

- what features the system offers,
- how to install the client application on your computer,
- how to use the system including instructional videos.
